TRW SHAREHOLDERS SEND STRONG MESSAGE THAT BOARD

SHOULD OPEN BOOKS FOR NORTHROP GRUMMAN

LOS ANGELES -- April 24, 2002 -- Northrop Grumman Corporation (NYSE: NOC) Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Kent Kresa said today that, "TRW shareholders have sent a strong message to TRW's board of directors today in favor of allowing Northrop Grumman to begin due diligence in connection with its proposed acquisition of TRW. We are prepared to immediately enter discussions with TRW to resolve the outstanding differences concerning an agreement that allows Northrop Grumman to begin due diligence consideration of non-public information as soon as possible.

"As we have previously stated, we are willing to pay full and fair value for TRW and encourage TRW to provide information supporting any additional hidden value. However, we need to conduct due diligence before we can enter into substantive discussions that could lead to a negotiated transaction. We remain confident that a combination of TRW and Northrop Grumman would be in the best interests of TRW shareholders and employees," Kresa said.

Northrop Grumman stated a combination of TRW and Northrop Grumman would create a third major player in the growing defense space business, providing our country with enhanced competition and innovation in key areas of national defense.

TRW would also add complementary capabilities in communications, electronics and information warfare, while broadening Northrop Grumman's information technology customer base. The combination would create the nation's largest supplier of information technology services to the federal government.

"Northrop Grumman has a great future, with or without TRW," Kresa said. "As we have previously stated, we will not overpay, but we believe the successful completion of this transaction is clearly in the long-term best interests of TRW shareholders as well as Northrop Grumman shareholders," Kresa concluded.

Northrop Grumman Corporation is an $18 billion, global defense company with its worldwide headquarters in Los Angeles.
